

República de los Niños

Description

Located in La Plata, Argentina, the Children's republic (República de los Niños in Spanish) is a theme park representing a city for children. Created by the Eva Perón foundation and inaugurated in 1951, it features replicas of major monuments such as a courthouse, the seat of government, an airport, etc. The park educates children about the importance of community and the things it takes to maintain a healthy and happy society.
