

Colosseum

Description

Built in the time of Emperor Vespasian, its original name was "Flavian amphitheater". The name "Colosseum" was inspired by the Great Statue of Nero or "Colossus Neronis", which is located at the entrance of the "Domus Aurea". Made famous by the Venerable Bede, a legend says that "As long as the Colosseum stands, Rome shall stand; when the Colosseum falls, Rome will fall; when Rome falls, the whole world will fall."
